

In the days

when Cain's sons built towers when Nephilim walked the land, the earth groaned under violence, there was one man who walked away

Enoch

Son of Jared.

Seventh from Adam.

He was a citizen amongst men

Living wealthy

within the kingdom of Cain

he was a general

A guard

A watcher

over the walls of Cain

assigned to make sure that no mighty creature

could break it's walls down

the Dinosaurs ROARED

they walked like Titans blocked off and murmuring behind the towering walls of Cain's city this was the early job of Enoch then one day

Enoch bore a son with his wife

Methuselah

and his eyes lit up

for the first time

the new born boy was beautiful innocent

dependant

He softened Enoch's heart and reminded him

of who he used to be

before he had built walls

over his heart

So Enoch stood again the next day at work as a watcher of Cain's towers and he wondered

and

wondered

about the outside world

the world beyond the walls he looked at the T-Rex again not as a foe this time

but as a friend

whom he just never really understood

then Enoch

cried

his heart was touched

reborn

and it was so

He turned his back on the kingdoms of Cain.

He longed for the God who made the mountains,

the seas,

the creatures

and the body of Eden.

Enoch became a family man

he stayed home more often his wife saw that he had changed and she loved it

his smile was brand new and they bore even more sons and daughters then

Enoch was called out

out of the city

and into the wilderness

He walked

Then he sat

where the mighty animals paused at the presence of the lord and behold

a VISION

the rebellion of the angels the Watchers that fell.

The Garden

The Fall of Man

the earth that had been corrupted.

And the End

The Son of Man

clothed in light

Along many angels who were pure

Binded in arrival

to execute judgment

then Enoch finally

was called back to return to the city of Cain

For he had seen the chains of darkness prepared for Cain and his people and he arrived at the king's feet

he spoke

"Behold!

The Lord comes with ten thousands of His holy ones, to execute judgment on all."

The kings mocked him.

The people cursed him.

The King ordered that Enoch shall be executed

But Enoch bore witness.

He escaped by His grace and he walked

and walked

as the loneliest man alive

But then he danced

And sang

Free in the wilderness

where the mighty creatures had paused before him

He was the first man

To dance with the lord

He carried his spirit all over the earth

And one day,

it was done

He was taken.

Enoch vanished

from the city of men,

and was found

in the presence of God.

at last
